- Review Evaluation Processes: Conduct a comprehensive review of internal evaluations to ensure fairness and transparency.
- Strengthen Support for Personalized Learning: Encourage teachers to provide individualized feedback and support.

Conclusion

The student survey revealed overwhelmingly positive feedback, with the majority of parameters scoring above 70%. This indicates a strong overall perception of teaching quality and institutional support among students. Many respondents expressed satisfaction with their learning experiences, highlighting effective instruction and helpful resources. However, the results also identified areas for targeted improvement. Specifically, students emphasized the need for enhanced career guidance and better integration of technology in the learning process. Addressing these concerns could significantly enrich the student experience, making it more relevant and engaging. By focusing on these specific aspects, the institution can further bolster its strengths while ensuring that all students feel adequately prepared for their future careers. Overall, the survey underscores a solid foundation of positive feedback, with clear pathways for ongoing improvement that align with student needs and aspirations.
